

“I Have tears In My Eyes”

This famous Vietnam war picture of a South Vietnamese officer summarily executing a Viet Cong prisoner – has a surprising story (via Solomon).

What moral follows from this? Context is everything? War is hell? Cameras do lie? The Americans were the good guys in Vietnam after all? The media, and their agenda, haven't changed much in 30 years? Not really. Nothing much follows from the fact that some human being has made a mistake. It's what human beings do. But all those morals are true nonetheless.

Wed, 02/11/2004 - 03:48 | digg | del.icio.us | permalink