

You Can't Make A Silk Purse Out Of...

Remember the Koran that was being written in Saddam's blood? And his handwriting on the Iraqi flag? Well, now it's been revealed what that flag was actually made of:

BBC NEWS WORLD EDITION

Last Updated: Monday, 26 April, 2004, 15:52 GMT 16:52 UK

E-mail this to a friend

Printable version

Iraq unveils new 'inclusive' flag

Iraq's US-appointed Governing Council has approved a new national flag for the embattled country, officials said.

The design consists of a pale blue crescent on a white background, with a yellow strip between two blue lines at the bottom.

What the new Iraqi flag might look like

IGC spokesman Hameed al-Kafei said the flag heralded "a new era" as Iraq could not continue using its flag from the Saddam Hussein era.

Mon, 04/26/2004 - 18:41 | digg | del.icio.us | permalink